Policy For Watersheds
Public Comment.

Just been informed that the administration is in the process of creating a "Unified Federal Policy for Watersheds." This policy and the clean water action plan (CWAP) is supposedly authorized by the "Clean Water Act", which is highly questionable. A lawsuit against CWAP was filed last June by The Wyoming Association of Conservation Districts and 65 other organizations and individuals.

Since you are asking for public comment, my comment is no. We have the Clean Water Act by Congress which addresses BODIES of water and it is enough. We, the people of this country do not need to have that expanded to include the WATERSHEDS. If Congress feels a need for this sort of expansion, they will do it and do it right, with plenty of research and study.

Thank you, Ed Welin, citizen of California
